MAKOKO SOCIAL STRUCTURE

Makoko enjoys a rich culture and heritage. A wide mixture of cultures and languages from all over West Africa have found a home in Makoko, and all seem to peacefully co-exist.

This is made possible in part by the respect each inhabitant of Makoko shares for its deeply rooted tradition. Traditional practices such as Shaman consultation and medicine, superstition, rituals and traditional celebrations are still abundant.

Family is also very important. The elders expect respect and assistance from their children.

Despite the use of communication technology such as mobile phones, news in Makoko still travels by word of mouth.
